however, the percentage of generic prescribing had not improved and the percentage of antibiotics prescribed had increased.

this may allow the slave drive to be detected.